Official MAGNETIC SHIELD CORPORATION Document

What are the issues using magnetic shielding material at high vacuum?

CO-NETIC AA alloy is specifically formulated for maximum magnetic shielding properties and has some physical properties similar to stainless steel. Out-gassing is minimal and cleaning for high vacuum applications can follow the same procedures used for stainless steel. Handle annealed magnetic shields carefully to avoid severe deformation which causes reduced attenuation.